

BEWARE OF COMMON GERMS

That nasty looking thing in the above illustration is the salmonella bacteria.

Salmonella grows out of spoiled food. It can be transferred by hands and on shoes from restaurants, offices, schools and other common areas.

According to the CDC Salmonella causes about 1.2 million illnesses and 23,000 hospitalizations a year.

What is the Hantavirus?

Hantavirus is carried by deer mice. Humans can get sick with this virus if they breathe in contaminated dust from mice nests or droppings.

Mice nest in many different places in homes and businesses which is a potential risk to anyone who spends time in those indoor areas.
